PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

TO THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES:

Petitioner prays that a writ of certiorari issue to review the judgment of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit affirming the judgment of the United States District Court for the Central District of California, convicting the petitioner for a violation of the Universal Military Training and Service Act and sentencing him to the custody of the Attorney General.

1. OPINION OF THE COURT BELOW

The opinion of the United States Court of Appeals is not yet reported. It is set forth as Appendix A to this petition.

2. STATUTORY PROVISION SUSTAINING JURISDICTION

The judgment of the Court of Appeals was entered on April 27, 1971, the same date as the Opinion, Appendix A.

This Petition for Writ of Certiorari is filed within the required thirty days time, as extended by Mr. Justice Douglas to June 26, 1971.

The jurisdiction of the Court rests on Section 1254 (1) of the Judicial Code, 28 U.S.C. The District Court had jurisdiction under U.S.C. § 3231.

3. QUESTIONS PRESENTED AND HOW RAISED

The Motion for Judgment of Acquittal and some of the briefing in the Court of Appeals raised the following questions including the one of late crystallization of conscientious objector, considered by this Court in Ehlert v. United States, 91 S.Ct. 1319 (1971).

A. This petitioner questions the validity of the explicitly stated basis given by this Court for Ehlert. Petitioner presents herein a detailed affidavit of fact and over two dozen court opinions to show that the Court's stated basis has no basis in fact.

B. Whether Mulloy v. United States, 398 U.S. 410 (1970), requires a reopening of a registrant's classification postured as petitioner.

4. STATUTES AND REGULATIONS INVOLVED

Involved are the Fifth Amendment and 32 C.F.R. § 1625.2. They are set forth in Appendix B.

5. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The indictment charged Taggart with a violation of the Universal Military Training and Service Act for refusing to submit to induction [CT. 2].

He pleaded "not guilty" and was tried by the Honorable Irving Hill, District Judge, sitting alone without a jury. He was found guilty and given an 18 month sentence, the first six in a jail and the next twelve on probation [CT. 18], and is on bail pending appeal [CT. 18].

A written Motion for Judgment of Acquittal had been filed during the trial [CT. 14].

6. FACTS

The facts are found complete in the Selective Service file of the petitioner.

Taggart registered with the Selective Service System on April 14, 1966 [Ex. 2]. A student, he was classified II-S by his Local Board on October 12, 1966 [Ex. 11]. On July 12, 1967, he was classified I-A by his Local Board [Ex. 11]. On February 15, 1968, Selective Service System Form 252, Order to Report for Induction on March 12, 1968, was mailed to him [Ex. 45]. On March 27, 1968, another Order to Report for Induction on April 3, 1968, was mailed to him [Ex. 46]. Other orders to report were sent [Ex. 11]. Mail addressed to his last known address was returned to the Selective Service System unclaimed [Ex. 68].

Taggart informed his Local Board why he had not reported for induction on the various dates [Ex. 71]. The reason was that he did not receive the notices.

On September 5, 1968, he requested Selective Service System Form 150, for Conscientious Objectors, from his Local Board [Ex. 79].

On October 31, 1968, it was recommended by the State Director that Appellant be reported as a delinquent [Ex. 84].

The Selective Service System made a Delinquent Registrant Report on Appellant on November 6, 1968 [Ex. 85].

On June 11, 1969, Mr. Ryan of the F.B.I. called the Local Board and asked that Taggart be ordered, per United States Attorney authority, to report for induction with the July induction call [Ex. 87]. He was so ordered [Ex. 88]. On June 26, 1970 he again requested Selective Service System Form 150 for Conscientious Objectors [Ex. 89].

Taggart submitted the Special Form for Conscientious Objectors to his Local Board and it was marked "received July 2, 1969" [Ex. 94]. In this form he presented a prima facie case for a I-O conscientious objector classification [Ex. 90-99].

Taggart was ordered to report for Induction on July 1, 1970 [Ex. 11]. He reported for induction but was rejected for one month [Ex. 10]. The United States Attorney was advised of the temporary rejection by the Selective Service System [Ex. 10].

Taggart was the subject of the following letter from the office of the United States Attorney to the Selective Service System on November 10, 1969:

Dear Colonel O'Brien:

A review of the above-registrant's selective service file reflects that he submitted a request for conscientious objector status which was received by the Local Board on July 2, 1969. The registrant had previously reported for induction on July 1, 1969 and was temporarily rejected for one month. He was subsequently ordered on August 19, 1969.

In view of the above circumstances, this office is deferring prosecution in favor of Local Board action. It is suggested that the Local Board review registrant's SSS Form 150. If the facts therein do not warrant a reopening of registrant's classification he should then be furnished form C-140-L and then Form C-190-A.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

Very truly yours,

Wm. Matthew Byrne, Jr.
United States Attorney

Assistant U.S. Attorney

cc: FBI, L.A. [Ex. 110]

Despite the prima facie case established for the I-O conscientious objector classification [Ex. 90-99] and the evidence in support of his claim [Ex. 100-101, 110, 112], the Selective Service System refused to classify Taggart in any other classification but I-A. On December 8, 1969 the Selective Service System sent him the following form letter:

Dear Sir:

This will acknowledge receipt of your communication relative to your selective Service status. The information contained therein has been considered by this board and you are hereby advised it did not specifically find there has been a change in status resulting from circumstances over which you had no control. In its opinion, the reopening or reclassification of your case is therefore not warranted.

Yours very truly,

By Direction of the Local Board
/s/ Margaret M. Carroll
Margaret M. Carroll
Exec. Secretary

[Ex. 113]

On January 5, 1970, he refused to submit to induction stating:

"I do not believe that a man should be forced to participate in or support in any way an institution in which he does not believe, in this case the armed forces. It would be against my conscience to enter into the armed forces" (Ex. 126A].

When Taggart refused induction he further stated to the Selective Service System officials in writing his reasons for refusing induction:

I, Ronald Dale Taggart, a conscientious objector because of my religious training and belief, am opposed to war in any form and will under no circumstances enter into an institution which supports any war. I am ruled by a higher law which tells me that to kill another human being is the absolute ultimate sin which a man can possibly commit. Because of my deepest religious beliefs and commitments it is impossible for me to be inducted into the armed forces. I know that in God's eyes I am doing the right thing and am aware of and willing to face the consequences of my decision.

[Ex. 127]

7. REASONS FOR GRANTING WRIT

The Court should consider anew its Ehlert decision because the explicitly given reason for the Court's conclusion is without sufficient factual basis, if any exists.

8. ARGUMENT

POINT ONE

Ehlert Should Be Reviewed. Ehlert Explicitly Turned on a Factual Assumption That Now Appears to Be Without Basis-in-Fact.

This Court said in Ehlert:

> "We are assured, however, by a letter included in the briefs in this case from the General Counsel of the Army to the Department of Justice, that present practice allows presentation of such claims and that there thus exists no possibility that last crystallizers will find themselves without a forum in which to press their claims. Our conclusion in this case is based upon that assurance." 91 S.Ct. 1319, 1324-1325. (Italics supplied)

A. There is overwhelming judicial pronouncement of "facts", in context, that shows this "assurance" does not comport with reality, among other things that late crystallizers discover that the military will not lend its ears to them and that they truly are without a forum.

B. Additionally, counsel attaches to this petition his affidavit that relates his own experience in this area of military conduct. It shows that other and most serious aberrations are frequently present, so frequently that counsel has no hesitancy in presenting this affidavit against the hearsay "assurance" based on nameless, faceless informants. It, and a supplement are set forth in Appendix C to this petition.

A.

There Is Overwhelming Judicial Opinion That the Factual Basis for This Court's Decision Is Unfounded and That the Language of Both the DoD 1300.6 and the AR 635-30 Is Uniformly Considered Plain, and That There Is No Ambiguity, and It Must Be Followed.

All judicial experience supports this claim of petitioner. If the Court intends to overrule all the courts below on this point as it has already done in one area of Ehlert [with respect to those judges who support the uncontrollableness of conscience in relation to the "crystallization" doctrine] it is respectfully suggested that an explicit pronouncement would be helpful, as in Estep v. United States, 327 U.S. 114 where the concurring opinion of Mr. Justice Frankfurter cataloged such an explicit repudiation of all Court of Appeals judges, but one (f. 1, pp. 138-139).

POINT TWO

The Army Can't Be Counted on to Follow the Guidelines of Its General Counsel.

Army practice, in context, is often far different from even the printed regulations; also, relief thereafter encounters built-in, unnecessary dead-ends.

1. "Knowledgeable" Hearing Officers [a requirement of DoD 1300.6 and repeated in AR 635-20] are not always assigned to conduct the "03 Hearings." See Affidavit of Counsel attached hereto, made part hereof by reference and marked Appendix "C", first several pages.

2. Administrative relief opportunity after the 03 Hearing is almost a mockery. Court relief from arbitrary decision is unnecessarily hazardous because records turn out to be inadequate-to-poor.

a. "Reporting" must be done at the expense of the applicant, if and when permitted and tape recording is now prohibited. See Affidavit of Counsel attached hereto, made part hereof by reference and marked Appendix "C", next several pages.

b. Completely favorable reports of the "03 Hearing Officer" have been arbitrarily rejected by superior officers who never saw the applicant. See Affidavit of Counsel attached hereto, made part hereof by reference and marked Appendix "C", pages A7 and A8.

c. On the other hand relief opportunity from the Selective Service System denials is readily available, and is granted when indicated. See Affidavit of Counsel attached hereto, made part hereof by reference and marked Appendix "C", pages A9 and A10.

Assuming it is concluded that the above listed arguments are considered sufficiently supported by the affidavit and by the reported cases we believe it follows either that the military remedy relief route is devoid of fairness to inductees, or, in the alternative that a no-man's land appears to exist. Therefore a writ is now justified on the proposition that the civil court remedies should be left available to late-filing conscientious objectors.

We believe we have disposed of the validity of the "assurance" given by the Army's General Counsel in Point One and Point Two, above.

A.

We now present facts and argument to remove, what we respectfully assert, is a related misconception in the Court's opinion, one stated in the same paragraph as its explicit reliance on the Army General Counsel's "assurance." The opinion says:

> "As for the absence of any no man's land, the pertinent military regulations are somewhat inconsistent in their phrasing, perhaps because of the sharp division among the court of appeals."

First, we argue that to the military there is nothing inconsistent in the AR's phrasing.[1]

We read these subsections of the regulation, as the military have always read them as meaning:

1. Sub (a) says "consideration will be given. . ." [only] "when such objection develops subsequent to entry. . ."

2. Sub (b) says: A man who didn't timely present existing conscientious objector belief to his draft board is S.O.L., the army's oral characterization. We translate this S.O.L. expression to mean: Surely out of Luck.

Second, the synopses of the 30 court opinions, supra, involving over two score judges plus our own affidavit show the military practice and give added support to our "First" argument, immediately above, that no ambiguity exists.

B.

A parallel consideration of the last two versions of the afore-quoted portion of AR 635-20 shows that the Army does try to pay lip service to this Court's pronouncements.

Attention is invited to the AR 635-20 dated 31 July, 1970. It is headed:

1. The AR's provisions we refer to are set forth in the opinion's footnote 10. Subparagraphs a and b of ¶3, we submit, are merely repetitious. We italicize to emphasize our reading.

"10. See Army Regulation No. 635-20, ¶3:

'a. Consideration will be given to requests for separation based on bona fide conscientious objection to participation in war, in any form, when such objection develops subsequent to entry into the military service.' "

PERSONNEL SEPARATIONS
CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTION

Effective 15 August 1970

This revision is necessary to reflect the recent change from "religious beliefs" as the basis for requesting separation from the service for conscientious objection to "deeply held moral, ethical or religious beliefs."

This heading is obviously a prompt and good start toward implementation of Welsh v. United States, 90 S.Ct. 1792 (June 15, 1970) but, when we turn the first page for details under ¶ "4 . . . Procedure. . .

"(1) General Information. . ." [we come to]

"(2) Religious Training or beliefs held.

(a) A description of the nature of belief which is a basis of claim.

(b) Explain how, when and from whom or from what source the applicant received the training and acquired the belief which is the basis of claim."

We submit this demand for details [with the word "religious" in the heading for the sub-paragraphs] is coercive and misleading, and in substance gives the anxious applicant for separation the same Procrustean bed as did the pre-Welsh version of the AR, dated 27 May 1968.

Perhaps the military may change the AR to conform to Ehlert (even as the 1968 version did belatedly bow to Seeger v. United States, 85 S.Ct. 850 (1965)) by omitting (a) of (2) [which had read "Do you believe in a Supreme Being"] and substituting the current question "(2) (a) A description of the . . . ."

We submit that conjectures about the future are out of place.

We call the current AR 635-20 coercive and misleading because Welsh removed a showing of "religious" training and belief as a necessity for qualifying whereas the current AR certainly implies that the nature of the belief, and its source, better be religious, or else. . .

Until the Department of Defense directs that all the armed services change their regulations (by whatever names known) to comply with the "assurance" given the Court by the Army's General Counsel no one can advise a man in any of the armed services that his claim for a conscientious objector type will be honored if consultation reveals that anything exists to show he had such belief before enlistment or induction.

Annexed to this petition is a Supplemental Affidavit that recites the experience of counsel at a Marine Corps conscientious objector hearing on May 22, 1971. In it are recited a number of denials of due process, chiefly ones of impermissable status of and incorrect conduct by the Hearing Officer.

On June 16th, events in this marine's case took a not infrequent turn: evidently recognizing one or all of the irregularities he was given one day to accept an offer of an Undesirable Discharge.

We repeat until there is a DoD directive ordering all the armed services to follow the assurance of the Army's General Counsel this Court has no basis in fact for its conclusion in Ehlert.

Finally, we believe that no conscientious objector should be expected to go into the Army to get out. We have heard of no one, since the prescient and desperate Professor Billings,[2] who could allow himself to follow such a procedure.

2. Billings v. Truesdell, 321 U.S. 542 (1944).

CONCLUSION

1. The Selective Service System affords a fairer remedy to selectees than the military and is a better equipped administrative agency for determining conscientious objections.

2. Also, until the military regulations are changed to conform to the recent expression of the army's General Counsel there has existed, and presently exists, a no-man's-land for late crystallizing selectees.

3. A writ should be granted, or perhaps the case should be remanded for consideration in the light of the decisions of the last fifteen months.

Respectfully,

J. B. TIETZ
Attorney for Petitioner

APPENDIX A

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Appellee,
vs.
RONALD DALE TAGGART,
Appellant.

No. 26887

APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

Before: KOELSCH, ELY and TRASK, Circuit Judges

PER CURIAM:

(Filed April 27, 1971)

Ronald Dale Taggart appeals from the judgment convicting him of refusing to submit to induction in the armed forces of the United States (50 U.S.C. App. 462).

Appellant's Selective Service file reveals that this is another case of a Selective Service registrant tardily claiming to be a conscientious objector. In fact, the file affirmatively shows that appellant's beliefs preexisted by several years the Local Board's order to report for induction.

Appellant recognizes that the pertinent Regulation, 32 C.F.R. 1625.2, which this court has applied in numerous cases [e.g. United States v. Uhl, 436 F.2d 733 (9th Cir. 1971)] provided the warrant for the Board's refusal to reopen his 1-A classification. His principal contention is that the Regulation violates Congressional policy declared in 50 U.S.C. App. 456(j) and hence that it is void. However, this court has only recently considered such a contention and sustained the Regulation.[1] United States v. Lowell, ... F.2d ..... (9th Cir. Jan. 20, 1971). We reaffirm that decision.

Judgment affirmed.

1. It follows that appellant's point that the Local Board's refusal to reopen constituted a denial of due process lacks merit. United States v. Uhl (supra).

APPENDIX B

Amendment Involved

V

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any Criminal Case to be a witness against himself; nor be deprived of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

Regulation Involved

Section 1625.2 of the Selective Service Regulations (32 C.F.R. § 1625.2 (E. O. 10292, 16 F. R. 9862, Sept. 28, 1961)) provides:

> "When registrant's classification may be reopened and considered anew.—The local board may reopen and consider anew the classification of a registrant (1) upon the written request of the registrant, the government appeal agent, any person who claims to be a dependent of the registrant, or any person who has on file a written request for the current deferment of the registrant in a case involving occupational deferment, if such request is accompanied by written information presenting facts not considered when the registrant was classified, which, if true, would justify a change in the registrant's classification; or (2) upon its own motion if such action is based upon facts not considered when the registrant was classified which, if true, would justify a change in the registrant's classification; provided, in either event, the classification of a registrant shall not be reopened after the local board has mailed to such registrant an Order to Report for Induction (SSS Form No. 252), unless the local board first specifically finds there has been a change in the registrant's status resulting from circumstances over which the registrant had no control."

APPENDIX C

AFFIDAVIT OF COUNSEL IN SUPPORT OF PETITION FOR REHEARING

STATE OF CALIFORNIA)
) ss.
COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES)

J. B. Tietz, being first duly sworn, states:

1. I am counsel of record in this captioned case and was counsel for petitioners in all courts below, trial and appellate.

2. I started practicing law in Ohio, in 1926; and, at all times since 1944 have practiced in my present office at 257 South Spring Street, Los Angeles, California.

3. Since 1944, and for 25 of the last 27 years I have specialized in draft and related military problems, nearly all of these clients claiming conscientious objections to war and to military training.

4. During this 25 year period I have followed the procedures of the eleven armed services (the four regular, and the seven reserve and guard organizations) as carefully as possible, on matters concerning my clients.

5. In 1968 DoD 1300.6[1] was amended in two chief particulars: (1) to take away the initial decision on a man's conscientious objections from his immediate commanding officer and (2) to afford him the opportunity to have private counsel: ". . . The applicant will then be afforded an opportunity to appear in person (with counsel retained by him, if he desires) before an officer in the grade of 03, or higher, who is knowledgeable in policies and procedures relating to conscientious objector matters. The designated hearing officer will not be an officer in the applicant's chain of command."

1. The Department of Defense Directive referred to in Ehlert.

Prior to this amendment, and from the beginning of the Vietnam armed involvement reports came to me from many military installations that DoD 1300.6 was being entirely disregarded, as follows: "An officer took me aside and said 'I'm giving you a friendly tip: the policy here is to grant no c.o. discharges. You are up against a stone wall.' I learned he was telling me the truth."

From 1968 to date my aid to in-service men has included appearing with them at such hearings, ones now universally termed "the 03 hearing."

6. Samples of my experiences are:

a. Most recently, on April 20, 1971, I appeared with and on behalf of Dr. Ralph Hannah at the Armory in Pasadena, California. The hearing officer was an infantry colonel[2] and the four other officers present were either infantry or other non-legal (Judge Advocate General) men, hereinafter referred to in this affidavit as JAG officers. Each was in uniform like the Hearing Officer.

The Hearing Officer was directly on the applicant's chain of command. He answered one of my questions, as follows: "No, this is the first such hearing I have attended."

I was forbidden to use my tape recorder[3] and was told, "No, you will not get a copy of my report."[3]

b. On April 22, 1971, I was at Fort Ord, Fort Ord, California with and on behalf of PFC Martin Rush, a "Native American" that is an Indian from the historically peaceful Pima tribe.

2. Underscoring denotes a violation of the DoD.

3. Italicizing denotes a grave unfairness.

There I encountered three[4] young JAG officers all sitting as a panel and was told "No, you cannot use the tape recorder."[3]

c. On December 2, 1970 I was at a lawyer's office in Pasadena, California with Lt. Max Bothwell.

The Hearing Officer was an infantry colonel; the man who had appointed him was a colonel in chemical warfare; both were in dress uniform, as was an infantry major. All were in applicant's organization and/or chain of command.

I was forbidden to use my tape recorder (it being explained "This would inhibit freedom of expression."); I was told "You will not get a copy of my report."

This was the most extraordinary one I have attended in that 95% of all the hearing officer said was in this vein: "You are a most intelligent young man; the army needs you; you can do much for the service if you stay in."

d. I have attended hearings (all since the 1968 amendment, of course) where situations comparable to the above were present such as one at Fort Lewis, Fort Lewis, Washington, where the hearing officer was an infantry major and forbade the use of a tape recorder, one at the Marine Aircraft Wing near Santa Ana, California where the Marine Corps major was a non-legal officer and in the chain of command but did permit recording.

e. Where the Hearing Officer is favorably impressed, and so declares in a detailed report (with corroborating support in the form of many unimpeachable letters) the applicant still can encounter an abrupt and arbitrary denial of relief by a superior officer, a man who never saw him. See cases cited in Point I, above.

4. Underscoring denotes a violation of the DoD.

> Where relief is thereafter obtained at the trial level [by a persistent soldier and one able to get a lawyer's aid] such cases are generally unreported. For example Bernie Reynolds had a most favorable Hearing Officer report, and a dozen letters from priests and nuns but had to file a petition, in San Francisco, to get his writ of habeas corpus. No. 51576 N.D. Cal.

7. Concerning the sabotage of the initial version of DoD 1300.6. Several clients, from different military installations informed me, during the period beginning in 1966 up to the middle of 1968: An officer said to me I'll give you a tip. You are in a blind alley. The policy here is to turn down all these c.o. applicants.

8. The Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors is an organization largely of Quakers, and one that has had the respect of all concerned: Pentagon, Selective Service System, historic peace churches, etc. It has had a vast quantity of experience in these conscientious objector matters for a generation. In its publication "Handbook, for Conscientious Objectors, Eighth Edition, Third Printing, December, 1966, on page 82 re DoD 1300.6:

> "Although many men were discharged on grounds of conscience during 1964 and 1965, since the spring of 1966 virtually all applications have been denied regardless of merit."

In its Ninth Edition, Second Printing, January, 1968 it saw no reason to alter the above statement and repeated it verbatim.

In its Eleventh Edition, September, 1970 it reported "About 70% of the applications for noncombatant status and about 20% of the application for CO discharge are approved. Some unsuccessful applicants are discharged on other grounds." On page 93.

Evidently, the 1968 Amendment to the DoD improved the situation. What brought about the amendment and what were its new provisions?

1. Whereas, in 1964 and 1965 "many" of applicants for an AR 635 20 discharge were successful Pass the Word reduced it to denials of "virtually all applications" in 1966 and 1967.

2. This sabotage, and the attendant outcry and pressure brought the 1968 DoD 1300.6 amendment. Thereafter (1) the applicant's commanding officer was not to be his hearing officer; (2) a knowledgeable officer, 03 (captain) or higher was to be the hearing officer and (3) the applicant could have private counsel at the 03 Hearing. These changes clearly meant that the Department of Defense wanted the applicant to have a fair hearing.

SUPPLEMENTAL AFFIDAVIT.

This supplemental affidavit is to further show that the current practice of the military is to proceed without legal advice and, in consequence, to ignore the many court decisions interpreting the DoD 1300.6 and its progeny, in this instance the controlling Marine Corps Order, termed M.C.O. 1306.16B.

On May 22, 1971 affiant represented Pfc Elmer Ray Kent at his 03 Hearing at the Marine Air Base, Yuma, Arizona.

The Hearing Officer was a non-legal man (an aviator); also, he was in the chain of command. The "non-legal but aviator fact" was established by the insignia I observed on his lapels and by the way he signed documents that are now part of Kent's conscientious objector application for separation; the "chain of command" fact was his statement to me during the hearing.

The Hearing Officer also stated to me he would "use the chaplain's report and recommendation and the psychiatrist's report and reasoning."

> [This is not permissible: In the case of U.S. ex rel. Greenwood v. Resor (4th Cir., No. 15,392, April 12, 1971), the Court pointed out that AR 135-25 para 7b, expressly directs that neither the chaplain nor the psychiatrist should make a recommendation for approval or disapproval of an application for CO discharge. Thus the Court could "give no weight to the recommendation of either officer and we disregard whatever weight they were given by the Review Board."]

Also, he stated he would use, as his standard for judgment, Selective Service Systems Dr. Tarr's standard of ""training with rigor." This standard is false; there is no justification in the Act or in Welsh for this. It was issued, by the Director [LBM 107 6/July '70 Tarr] right after he was upset by the Welsh decision of the Court, June 15, 1970.

We were originally told that this hearing would be at the El Toro Marine Corps Base, a large installation with a legal department. No explanation was given for the change, or why a legal officer wasn't present.

On May 27, 1971 I received a telephone call from Kent and he read me the rejection recommendation of the 03 Hearing Officer: it was based on the incongruity of a man claiming conscientious objection to war when the record showed he had been convicted of possessing marihuana. It incorrectly stated he had been selling it, incorrect in other respects and most important, this and all other items were not mentioned at the 03 Hearing and we didn't know they were being considered. Copy of the Hearing Officer's report is attached. Copy of Kent's letter to affiant is also attached. Attention is invited to Kent's statement that the Hearing Officer interviewed him before the Hearing, in absence of counsel, and in defiance of the regulation and fairness. We refer to ¶5 of Kent's letter to affiant:

> "(5) He brings up many things which were not even covered in the hearing which came from conversations we had had before. The whole copy seems to revolve around this rather than the actual hearing."

An affidavit from Kent will be procured, one rebutting the report, if and when further pleadings are in order.

On May 29, 1971 the text of the report and recommendation of disapproval came. It was based on "insincerity". If supported by "demeanor" or by recited, pertinent facts the report would be on solid ground.

There is no mention of demeanor by word or in inference and the facts were immaterial ones such as (1) a conviction on a marihuana charge [partly incorrect]; (2) paper work late, including his letters of reference and, most important none of these items were related to us at the hearing and when I questioned the Hearing Officer at the conclusion of it whether he believed the applicant had been frank the officer said "Yes".

I had started the proceeding with his permission, and on my statement "We have the burden and, with the Hearing Officer's approval I will proceed with our case", and, after I covered everything, the officer asked almost no questions.

At the close he said, "You have covered everything" and then went into some generalities.

SECOND ENDORSEMENT on Private Elmer R. KENT's ltr 1:JBM:jcp over 1330 dtd 19 May 71

From: Captain James B. MCKENNEY (SSN 425 78 69 65) MSN 09 54 43/1501, USMC

To: Commanding Officer, Marine Training Squadron 103

Subj: Conscientious Objector Status; request for

1. Returned.

2. It is recommended that Private KENT's application be disapproved.

3. On 23 May 1971, Marine Corps Air Station, Yuma, Arizona, a hearing was conducted with Private Elmer R. KENT and Mr. J. B. Tietz (Attorney at law) present. Private KENT was afforded the opportunity to support his application.

4. It is felt that Private KENT's application is insincere. His application comes at a time when he is awaiting trial by Special Court Martial for an eleven month unauthorized absence. He was arrested 1 October 1970 by civilian authorities for possession of marijuana, selling marijuana, and possession of dangerous drugs. He was tried and convicted on 23 December 1970, served a ninety day sentence and is on three years probation. He stated that he had planned to return and apply for a conscientious objector status but was arrested. Although he claims to have started on the paper work prior to arrest, all his letters of reference are dated after 20 November 1970. It is felt that while in civilian custody, he decided to apply for this status as a means of evading court martial.

5. Private KENT professes to believe that everyone is God and all people should love each other. His belief was derived from a vision that he witnessed over a year ago on a rainy morning in El Toro. Also he stated that he can no longer perform any job in the military.

6. The Chaplain and Psychiatrist also believe that KENT's application is insincere and a means of getting out of military service.

7. It is further recommended that the Convening Authority proceed with the trial of Private KENT.

J. B. MCKENNEY

27 May 1971

Mr. Tietz,

Here's the copy. I want to go to court with this. I'm confident that I'll be able to pay you your fee. I'm already working on that now.

There are some things which bother me about this copy.

(1) He states that he feels my application is insincere. He said at the hearing that he felt I was sincere.

(2) He brings up my civil case stating that I was arrested for Pocess. Maraj., Sales of Maraj. and pocess dangerous drugs. There was no sales involved—that was an intent to sell charge—besides it was dropped and so was the pocess dangerous drugs. I feel he's slighting me here and building ground for prejudice against me.

(3) A remark about my claiming to have started my application prior to arrest. I have my receipts and things which you gave me at the time I first came to visit you.

(4) I was not tried and convicted on that civil charge. I was black mailed and coerced into a plea of guilty.

(5) He brings up many things which were not even covered in the hearing which came from conversations we had had before. The whole copy seems to revolve around this rather than the actual hearing.

(6) "His belief was derived from a vision that he witnessed over a year ago on a rainy morning in El Toro," I did not derive my belief from that. That was only a conformation or understanding. Sort of like the key that opened the door. Also I don't believe I said rainy morning because it was at night and I don't think it was raining. I believe I stated that it occured about the the same time of year as when Calif had that storm which caused rain for 13 days straight.

That's about all I can think of right now. When you reply can you give me some idea of the length of time—(like a tenative time table) for this proceeding. That will give me a frame work to work with in on financing this. I believe I can collect the money soon.

Thank You

/s/ Elmer R. Kent

P.S. They were supposed to have my hearing at El Torro. There was supposed to be a Colonel as the 0-3 and some other people were going to sit in. I learned this from Capt. Suciu my military defense counsel. He doesn't know why it was cancled. Perhaps a mistake was made. I'll check.

SUPPLEMENT

PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI

Due to some unexplained reason several pages of galley proof were not included in the printing of Taggart's petition.

The following is to be read as if inserted on page 8 immediately before "Point Two":

We present, in this portion of our petition, the determinations of over two dozen courts that support our thesis. They contradict the "assurance" passed on to this Court by the General Counsel of the Army.

What governs procedures in the Army? The ARs, the army regulations. How much weight should the Court give a letter from the General Counsel, based on reports to him, augmenting the record?

On a battlefield a recognized means of communication, in small units is "Pass the Word." If the General Counsel adds "I'm Passing the Word" then a little more weight is to be given his good offices. In army officer groups a well recognized means of communicating is "Pass the Word."

But what has been, and what is, the practice of the army in our context? A little history is desirable for the light it throws.

In conscientious objector matters, before the 1968 amendment to DoD 1300.6, Pass the Word resulted in sabotage to the AR 635-20 as is to be seen from counsel's attached affidavit, ¶7. The sabotage is why the 1968 amendment was made by the Secretary of Defense.

Since the record may be augmented by hearsay (from sources deemed reliable) we invite attention to our affidavit, attached to this petition. In the context of the argument being now made we quoted the following portion of the affidavit:

The Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors is an organization largely operated by Quakers, and one that has had the respect of all concerned: Pentagon, Selective Service System, historic peace churches, etc. It has had a vast quantity of experience in these conscientious objector matters for a generation. In its publication "Handbook, for Conscientious Objectors, Eighth Edition, Third Printing, December, 1966, re DoD 1300.6, we read:

> "Although many men were discharged on grounds of conscience during 1964 and 1965, since the spring of 1966 virtually all applications have been denied regardless of merit." [82]

In its Ninth Edition, Second Printing, January, 1968 it saw no reason to alter the above statement and repeated it verbatim.

In its Eleventh Edition, September, 1970 it reported "About 70% of the applications for noncombatant status and about 20% of the applications for CO discharge are approved. Some unsuccessful applicants are discharged on other grounds." [93]

Evidently, the 1968 Amendment to the DoD improved the situation. What brought about the amendment and what were its new provisions?

1. Whereas, in 1964 and 1965 "many" of applicants for an AR 635-20 discharge were successful, Pass the Word reduced it to denials of "virtually all applications" in 1966 and 1967.

See counsel's affidavit of how this was done.

2. This sabotage, and the attendant outcry and pressure on the Pentagon brought the 1968 DoD 1300.6 amendment. Thereafter (1) the applicant's commanding officer was not to be his hearing officer; (2) a knowledgeable officer, 03 (captain) or higher was to be the hearing officer and (3) the applicant could have private counsel at the 03 Hearing. These changes clearly meant that the Department of Defense wanted the applicant to have a fair hearing.

The following, recent court opinions emphasize our claim that the standards for discharge are governed by the plain and clear mandate of DoD 1300.6 and AR 635-20 and also show that for some reason, despite the amended DoD 1300.6, a considerable proportion of the military 03 hearings are still conducted (1) by officers in the chain of command [forbidden], (2) officers not knowledgeable [forbidden]; (3) and that the courts uniformly have used the plain standard of the DoD and the AR namely, that the conscientious objections must not have become "fixed" before the enlistment or induction ceremony.

[these cases are in alphabetical order: all italics is supplied]

Bachman v. Bradley, No. 2673 (W.D. Mo. Jan. 5, 1971), 3 SSLR 3948

"And further, he states:

> 'In the past months of my active duty service, I have recognized that the realities of Army life and functions are irrevocably in conflict with my convictions and beliefs.'" [3948]

Baker v. Laird, 316 F.Supp. 1, N.D. Calif. (1970)

> ". . . the army could deny an application for discharge to one claiming to be a conscientious objector where his application reveals that the grounds and beliefs adduced in support thereof are identical with those shown to have pre-existed induction. . . ." [4]

United States ex rel. Barr v. Resor, No. 23815 (D.C. Cir. March 31, 1971) 3 SSLR 3999:8

> "Barr never submitted a claim for exemption from all military service to his Selective Board. The Army Board's determination that Barr's application was governed by paragraph 3b (2) of AR 635-20 was therefore without basis in fact and habeas corpus was properly granted." [3999:10]

Bates v. Commander, etc., 413 F.2d 475 (1969) 1 Cir.

> "The Commandant's initial findings implicitly attack the petitioner's sincerity. But by holding that petitioner's present claim is inconsistent with his prior voluntary enlistment, the Commandant puts him in a 'hanged if he does, hanged if he doesn't' predicament. Under DoD Direction 1300.6 IV B2, conscientious objection will not be considered unless it arose after induction or enlistment. By the Commandant's reasoning, therefore, petitioner's claim cannot be considered if it arose prior to his enlistment and is evidence of insincerity if it arose afterwards. By the force of this logic, no member of the armed services could ever qualify as a conscientious objector." [478]

Bohnert v. Faulkner, 6 Cir., 438 F.2d 747 (1971)

> ". . . the Department of Defense provides for in-service discharge for conscientious objectors and requires that such beliefs must have been acquired after the enlistee entered the service, the timing of the request for discharge supports no more than an inference insufficient alone to constitute a basis in fact for doubting sincerity." [754]

Bortree v. Resor, D. of Col. 1970, 316 F.Supp. 93

> "In accordance with Army Regulation No. 635-20, the petitioner was interviewed by . . . Captain H. J. Nitko[1], an officer in the Army who is knowledgeable in policies and procedures relating to conscientious objector matters; [f. 1-1. 'Orginally Captain Thomas M. Duszynski had interviewed the petitioner, but he was disqualified by Headquarters, Department of the Army, since he was in the petitioner's chain-of-command.']"

Bortree v. Resor, No. 24607 (D.C. Cir. Mar. 2, 1971) 3 SSLR 3788

> "Moreover, all indications are that these officers did not have legally sufficient grounds for their recommendations. Captain Nadwodny was Bortree's unit commanding officer at Fort Dix and presumably had some contact with him, but he did not interview Bortree concerning his application for discharge." [3792]

United States ex rel. Brooks v. Clifford, 400 F.2d 700 (1969) 4th Cir.

"Indeed, the administrative procedures were devised for the very purpose of permitting the assertion of a claim of conscientious objection . . . when the objection was not formulated until after military service had begun." [707]

Cohen v. Laird, No. 69-1085 (D. S.C. June 26, 1970) 3 SSLR 3875

"Yet, it was during this very period of his basic training that he asserts his convictions 'crystallized.'" [3877]

Application of Corvell; 307 F.Supp. 209, N.D. Calif. (1969)

". . . preclude granting discharges to those . . . whose beliefs pre-dated but were not claimed prior to active duty." [212]

Donham v. Resor, 2 Cir., 436 F.2d 751 (1971)

[On the requirement that the Hearing Officer be knowledgeable only one opinion is known to counsel where the decision turned on this, the Court finding that the Hearing Officer (a Colonel Gleason, at West Point) was not knowledgeable in context.] [754]

Goodwin v. Laird, 317 F.Supp. 863, N.D. Calif. (1970)

". . . he has adequately explained how and why his beliefs became fixed after entry to the service." [866]

Gordon v. Resor, E.D.N.Y., 323 F.Supp. 268 (1970)

"The armed forces naturally focus their attention on conscientious objection crystallizing after induction, leaving cases of earlier crystallization to the jurisdiction of the Selective Service System. Ehlert v. United States, 422 F.2d 332 (9th Cir. 1970); Hammond v. Lenfest, 398 F.2d 705 (2d Cir. 1968); United States v. Gearey, 368 F.2d 144, 149-150 (2d Cir. 1966); cert. denied 389 U.S. 959, 88 S.Ct. 335, 19 L.Ed.2d 368 (1967); DoD 1300.6, supra." [270]

Grossman v. Fallwell, No. 21429 (D. Md. Nov. 28, 1969) 3 SSLR 3977

"All three of the line officers then (Captain Smith, Captain Clark and Lieutenant Colonel Gettings) concurred in the following critical finding:

1. That petitioner was sincere,

2. That his convictions were motivated by religious beliefs, and

3. That they became fixed after he went in the Army. In the face of those conclusions reached by those Army officers who were closest to petitioner, and who had personal contact with him, it is indeed difficult to understand how the Review Board could make diametrically opposed findings." [3979]

United States ex rel. Healy v. Beatty, 424 F.2d 299, 5th Cir. (1970)

". . . the objection itself must so manifest itself and not exist prior to entry on active duty." [302]

Helwick v. Laird, 5 Cir., 438 F.2d 959 (1971)

"Rather, the requirement of AR 635-20 (3) (b) is that the objection itself—the objection to participation in war in any form—must become fixed only after entry into the Army." [966]

Keil v. Seaman, D. Md., 314 F.Supp. 816 (1970)

"Nor does this Court find any basis in fact for concluding that Kiel's beliefs were not sincerely reached and held, or that they did not become crystallized and fixed until after his induction into the Army." [822]

Kepple v. Laird, 319 F.Supp. 1342, D. of C. (1970)

After citing AR 635-20, ¶2b on page 1344 the court concluded:

> "There is no showing that Kepple was under any compulsion to enlist in the Army and no evidence to overcome his claim that his convictions as to conscientious objection had not matured at that time." [1345]

La Manna v. Laird, W.D. Tex., 322 F.Supp. 1289

> "The case of United States ex rel. Healy v. Beatty, supra, is in point. There it was argued that Healy's religious beliefs did not change and did not 'develop subsequent to entry into the active military service.' In fact, Pvt. Healy conceded this. However, this loses sight of the fact that 'the Regulations speak of the development of conscientious objection to the participation in war "in any form" after induction'; that is to say, participation in such noncombatant service as the Medical Corps." [1292]

Lovallo v. Resor, No. 71C48 (E.D. N.Y. Feb. 4, 1971), 3 SSLR 3874

> "His experiences in the Army, according to his statements, served to increase his adversion [sic] to violence and warfare. The personal contacts he made and the exposure to new points of view in the 26th Army Band had a further significant impact on his thinking: '. . . [G]radually my conscience assumed a new depth of commitment to the beliefs that I had long before internalized.' AHBCA-BA at p. 6. He became active in the Staten Island Peace Coalition which along with the reported events at Mylai further deepened his commitment." [3874]

McMahan v. Laird, S.D. Cal., 320 F.Supp. 485 (1970)

> After citing DoD 1300.6 and Bupersnote 1900 dated August 24, 1970 the court concluded "Clearly, petitioner has more than satisfied his burden. . ." [489]

O'Connor v. McKean, No. 70-93, N.D. Ala. (May 5, 1970), 3 SSLR 3498

> "Army Regulations 635-20 2.b. (1) provides for consideration of applications for discharge when the conscientious objection develops subsequent to entry upon active military service, but specifically excludes from consideration requests based solely on conscientious objection which existed, but not claimed, prior to induction. This same philosophy expressed in the comparable Selective Service Regulations has been approved by the Courts. Keene v. United States, supra; Nellons v. United States, 1 SSLR 3144, 399 F.2d 295 (5th Cir. 1968). There is no reason the Army Regulation should not be given the same treatment." [3500]

Polsky v. Wetherill, 438 F.2d 132, 10th Cir. (1971)

> ". . . Polsky was in fact a sincere conscientious objector but that his beliefs in such regard had not crystallized during military service but were existent at the time of Polsky's voluntary enlistment." [133]

Rabbito v. Larson, No. 70-572, N.D. Calif. (Aug. 19, 1970), 3 SSLR 321

> ". . . hearing officer denied petitioner's claim because his application is based solely on conscientious objection which existed but was not claimed prior to his coming into military. . . . Petitioner's application in some detail describes how and why his beliefs became fixed after entry to the service." [3212]

United States ex rel. Sheldon v. O'Malley, 420 F.2d 1344, C.A. D.C. (1969).

> "The general policy is stated to be that consideration will be given to separation requests 'when such conscientious objection develops subsequent to entry into the active military service.' " [1345]

United States v. Sigmon, CM 416356 (Board of Review, U.S. Army, Jan. 2, 1968), 1 SSLR 3054

"The only factual questions . . . (1) Did the appellant actually attempt to apply for a discharge; and (2) Did his beliefs arise subsequent to his entry on active duty." [3055]

Stehling v. Casey, No. 70-C-104 (W.D. Wis. Jan. 22, 1971), 3 SSLR 3912

"He stated that his views had not begun to crystallize until he had been activated as a National Guard member for riot duty on the University of Wisconsin campus. He stated that he was a Roman Catholic at the time of the application, that he had been raised a Catholic and had attended 'a seminary for three years,' but that 'the full impact of the [Christian] concept' of the brotherhood of man had 'never really dawned' on him until the guard duty during the campus disturbance. He referred to a sermon on brotherhood and to certain experiences during his attendance at a National Guard summer camp. He said that 'attending the seminary for three years deepened my religious beliefs,' but that his conscientious objection had not solidified until years later, shortly before the filing of his application." [3912]

Talford v. Seaman, 306 F.Supp. 941, D. Md. (1969)

". . . he did not realize the incompatability of his religious beliefs and war in any form, until after his entry into the service."

* * *

"There remains the issue of whether Talford's views became fixed before entry into the service." [945]

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

ON PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

MEMORANDUM FOR THE UNITED STATES IN OPPOSITION

After a non-jury trial in the United States District Court for the Central District of California, petitioner was convicted of wilfully refusing to submit to induction into the armed forces, in violation of 50 U.S.C. App. 462(a). He was sentenced to six-months' imprisonment and two years' probation on the condition, inter alia, that he do work of national importance for a period of eighteen months. The court of appeals affirmed per curiam (Pet. App. A).

Petitioner registered with his local board in Santa Barbara, California on April 14, 1966 (SSF 1-2). He obtained a student (II-S) deferment which he held until July 12, 1967, when he was reclassified I-A (SSF 10, 14). On October 23, 1967, following a pre-induction physical examination, petitioner was found fully acceptable for induction (SSF 10, 16). He was ordered to report on March 12, 1968 (SSF 10, 42), but failed to do so. Four subsequent orders to report on April 3, 1968 (SSF 10, 46) July 2, 1968 (SSF 10, 55), September 10, 1968 (SSF 10, 74), and October 2, 1968 (SSF 10, 83), respectively, were also disobeyed.

Petitioner was again ordered to report for induction on July 1, 1969 (SSF 10, 88). He reported, but was temporarily rejected for one month; he was subsequently ordered to report on August 19, 1969 (SSF 10, 11, 104). On July 2, 1969, the local board first received a request from petitioner for a conscientious objector classification. In his completed SSS Form 150 (Special Form for Conscientious Objector), he stated (SSF 95–96):

> My beliefs have been formed, for the main part, through my family, specifically my parents, grandparents, and my uncle. My Grandfather, now deceased, was deeply involved in the church and was a bible teacher for many years. He taught me that life and love for your fellow man are the most precious and valuable things in the world. We had many discussions about God and his love and how I should try and put God's love to practice in my relations with other people. That to bestow loving and kindness upon people is right and to harm people is a sin.
> My uncle and parents have influenced my belifs [sic] very strongly in another way. It was through them putting me in close contact to nature, through camping trips and nature hikes, that I was made more aware of my love and respect for life. I have spent many days with > them and by myself observing the beauty and magnitude of life. It was through these excursions into nature that I developed a greater insight into my belief that the Supreme being is manifested in all and that all life is sacred.

> During the entire length of my life I have never been involved in any physical fight with another person. Even when I was in contact with a large number of people, such as in junior high school and high school, I always avoided getting into circumstances which would involve using physical force against someone. In the few cases in which I was in the position to be in a fight I backed down because I have no desire to do another person harm.

Petitioner's induction was again postponed. On December 8, 1969, the local board notified him that it had decided not to reopen his classification because it had found that there was no change in status resulting from circumstances beyond his control (SSF 11, 88). On December 11, 1969, he was ordered to report for induction on December 29, 1969 (SSF 11, 14). After a further postponement of one week petitioner reported on January 5, 1970; he was found fully qualified, but, when called to step forward, he refused to submit to induction (SSF 11, 127–129). The instant indictment and conviction followed, and the court of appeals affirmed.

In the court below, petitioner unsuccessfully challenged the validity of the last proviso of 32 C.F.R. 1625.2—which precludes local boards from reopening a classification after an induction order has been mailed unless they first specifically find "a change in the registrant's status resulting from circumstances over which the registrant had no control"—on the ground that it was contrary to congressional policy declared in the conscientious objector exemption provision of the statute (50 U.S.C. App. 456(j)). That same argument had been explicitly rejected by this Court only a few days before the Ninth Circuit's decision in the instant case in Ehlert v. United States, 402 U.S. 99.

Petitioner now asks this Court to reconsider Ehlert. He argues that the assurance of the General Counsel of the Army, on which this Court there relied (402 U.S. at 106)—i.e., that the present practice of the Army is to entertain conscientious objector claims based on beliefs maturing after the mailing of an induction notice but prior to actual induction—cannot serve as a proper basis for the Ehlert decision since it might not be followed by the Department of the Army in the future. If that situation should eventually develop, however, this Court has already indicated in Ehlert (402 U.S. at 107) that the appropriate time to review a general disregard by the military of the assurances given in Ehlert will be when proof of such practice is before the Court in a case in which the issue is properly presented. See our Brief in Opposition in Farrell and Roy v. United States, No. 71–77, this Term, at p. 6.[1]

[1] We know of no case in which the military has denied a serviceman a conscientious objector claim because his views ripened during the "hiatus period" discussed in Ehlert. In all of the authorities cited by petitioner in his supplement to the petition (Supp. Pet., pp. 4–10), the military fully considered the claims and found that the claimants' beliefs, if they did not mature after enlistment or induction, had crystallized—as in the instant case—well before Selective Service mailed the notice of induction. See also Morrison v. Laird, C.A. 9, No. 26,869, decided July 28, 1971.

This is not such a case. Indeed, here the Army was never presented with petitioner's conscientious objector claim because petitioner refused to submit to induction. Moreover, as pointed out by the court below (Pet. App. A 1), it is plain on the face of petitioner's SSS Form 150 that his objection to war, such as it is, did not ripen only after the mailing of his induction notice, but existed much earlier and was simply not then asserted as a basis for exemption. It has long been recognized that one who sleeps on his fully-matured conscientious objector claim until after receipt of orders to report for induction is not entitled to a reopening of his classification. See, e.g., United States v. Gearey, 368 F. 2d 144, 149 (C.A. 2); Davis v. United States, 374 F. 2d 1 (C.A. 5); Dugdale v. United States, 389 F. 2d 482 (C.A. 9); United States v. Uhl, 436 F. 2d 773, 774 (C.A. 9), and the cases there cited.

It is therefore respectfully submitted that the petition for a writ of certiorari should be denied.

SEPTEMBER, 1971 SUPPLEMENT TO PETITIONS FOR WRITS OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

This Supplement is to present to the Court a new, not heretofore available government document to further show, we now trust conclusively, that the holding of Ehlert v. United States, 402 U.S. 99, 91 S.Ct. 1319 (1971), should not apply to men like these petitioners, men who, at the time they were ordered to report for induction, were in a no-man's-land posture.

Ehlert said:

> "We are assured, however, by a letter included in the briefs in this case from the General Counsel of the Army to the Department of Justice, that present practice allows presentation of such claims and that there thus exists no possibility that late crystallizers will find themselves without a forum in which to press their claims. Our conclusion in this case is based upon that assurance." 91 S.Ct. 1319, 1324-1325. [Italics supplied]

The following chronology is presented as significant:

1. At all times concerned[1] with Ehlert and up to August 20, 1971 the Department of Defense Directive 1300.6 read:

> IV. B2.
> A request for discharge after entering military service based solely on conscientious objection which existed but was not claimed prior to induction or enlistment cannot be entertained. Similarly, requests for discharge based solely on conscientious objection claimed and denied by the Selective Service System prior to induction cannot be entertained. This accords with Federal court holdings that a claim to exemption from military service under the Selective Service laws must be interposed prior to notice of induction and failure to make timely claim for exemption constitutes waiver of the right to claim. However, claims based on conscientious objection growing out of experience prior to entering military service, but which did not become fixed until entry into the service will be considered. [Italics supplied]

2. Soon after Ehlert was decided the United States Court of Appeals began affirming the convictions (of cases pending on its docket) of Ehlert-type appellants.

The first, Taggart (No. 70-341) filed a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari on June 26, 1971, arguing in it (and in his Supplement) that an unbroken line of three dozen cases had dealt with the factual question of armed service procedures and that all held that where a man's conscientious objections had become fixed before entering the service his application would be rejected.

Subsequently, the above argument was repeated by others, filing similar petitions (Farrell, No. 71-77, Roy, No. 71-77 and Kilty No. 71-290) and the argument was elaborated as new and more recent (current) evidence of military practice come to light.

3. Then, on August 20, 1970, the Department of Defense amended its directive DoD 1300.6 conforming to the above-related assurance given the Court by the General Counsel of the Army. This amendment now gives a forum to men postured like petitioners were.

Petitioners, at the time they were called upon to submit to induction, had no forum.

Subparagraph IV A 2, the correlative portion of the amendment to former IV B 2 is brand new. Paragraph IV now reads:

Aug 20, 71
1300.6

IV. POLICY

A. Administrative discharge prior to the completion of an obligated term of service is discretionary with the Military Service concerned, based on a judgment of the facts and circumstances in the case. However, insofar as may be consistent with the effectiveness and efficiency of the Military Services, a request for classification as a conscientious objector and relief from or restriction of military duties in consequence thereof will be approved to the extent practicable and equitable within the following limitations:

1. Except as provided in Section IV.A.2. of this Directive, no member of the Armed Forces who possessed conscientious objection beliefs before entering military service is eligible for classification as a Conscientious Objector if

   (a) (1) such beliefs satisfied the requirements for classification as a Conscientious Objector pursuant to Section 6(j) of the Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended (50 U.S.C. App. 456(j)) and other provisions of law, and (2) he failed to request classification as a Conscientious Objector by the Selective Service System; or

   (b) (1) he requested classification as a Conscientious Objector before entering military service, and (2) such request was denied on the merits by the Selective Service System, and (3) his request for classification as a Conscientious Objector is based upon essentially the same grounds, or supported by essentially the same evidence, as the request which was denied by the Selective Service System.

2. Nothing contained in this Directive renders ineligible for classification as a Conscientious Objector a member of the Armed Forces who possessed Conscientious Objector beliefs before entering military service if (a) such beliefs crystalized after receipt of an induction notice; (b) he could not request classification as a Conscientious Objector by the Selective Service System because of Selective Service System regulations prohibiting the submission of such requests after receipt of induction notice; and (c) he makes application for classification as a Conscientious Objector within seventy-two (72) hours after his induction.

B. Because of the personal and subjective nature of conscientious objection, the existence, honesty, and sincerity of asserted conscientious objection beliefs cannot be routinely ascertained by applying inflexible objective standards and * * *.

It is submitted that certiorari should be granted.

Respectfully,

J. B. TIETZ
